NEWSLETTER – BULLETIN

November – Novembre 2011

Volume 27, no. 03

Dedicated to promoting interest and understanding of bonsai.
Faire mieux connaître et comprendre l'art du bonsai.

Steering Group Notes – Le Mot de votre Conseil Directeur From the October program.

Announcements: Mitsugi Kikuchi will donate a number of bonsai pots to OBS. Paul Lauzon will arrange to collect the pots at a public exhibition of the Ohara Ikebana School to be held at the Embassy of Japan on October 22nd and 23rd. These pots will be made available to OBS Members at a 'swap shop' in 2012. Arrangements can also be made to view bonsai and pre-bonsai plants at Mitsugi's home by contacting Duart Crabtree at 613 235-8059.

The Steering Group has been discussing the need to replace damaged structural pieces used to display bonsai compositions at OBS annual exhibitions. A prototype design will be on display in the garage of building 72 for inspection at the November Meeting.

Evening Program: Vianney Leduc opened the evening program with our annual discussion on preparing our bonsai for winter. Vianney covered essential aspects for the five categories of plants from tropical to hardy, with his detailed handout for newer Members. Each year there seem to be new challenges brought forward by Members and novel solutions and advice to take away.

In the second part of the evening program, Vianney suggested tasks that can be done through the winter months:

- Tropicals are growing slowly so it is a good time to wire branches, but with caution as they are more brittle.
- Larches have lost needles, making it much easier to remove and replace wires on branches and safer to perform detail wiring on foliage pads.
- For those with cold rooms all dormant bonsai can come out for wiring, work on dead wood, and design or redesign planning for several hours at room temperature with no ill effects. Vianney brought a Pine with a slim trunk and a thick first branch and a Yew with a thick trunk and slim branches to illustrate opportunities to address design challenges.

- Some species, such as Yews even tolerate radical pruning.

Very useful and timely information, Vianney!

THIS MONTH - CE MOIS-CI

The process of choosing a design for our trees can be challenging!

We will look at a method to evaluate the potential of pre-bonsai and raw material; and the process to follow, to come up with design alternatives.

We will use this method on nursery trees, a collected larch and a trident maple to come up with design possibilities.

Juniperus chinensis

Illusion of age, twisted with wire and pruned to conform,
Roots clawing down for life over rock;
Limbs dead and living framing allegory and emotion,
A tree captive in a clay pot....bonsai.

Context for Juniperus chinensis

At a TREE Seed Workshop (<http://www.treereadingseries.ca/workshops>) given by Mike Buckthought, I learned the beauty and purpose of classical Greek epigrams. This is my attempt to write one such epigram in this style on our passion... bonsai.

The classical Greek form epigram is 4 lines with 6,5,6,5 emphases. Hope you enjoy it.
